

Exposition of the Apostles' Creed by James Dodds

Total running time: 03:57:15

In the 19th century, James Dodds was a noted religious writer. He was educated in Edinburgh, joined the Free Church of Scotland, and served in Dunbar for most of his career. In this exposition, he writes primarily to a lay audience to make the fundamental beliefs of the Apostles' Creed more accessible. Although he does not delve into the history of the development of the creed, he draws from a wide body of reading, especially that of Martin Luther.

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org. Cover picture by Master Honoré (1295). Copyright expired in U.S. Cover design by David Purdy. This design is in the public domain.

Exposition of the Apostles' Creed – James Dodds

Exposition of the Apostles' Creed – James Dodds